

MINISTRY of DEFENSE ADVISOR (MoDA) PROGRAM

Fostering Relationships, Building Capacity, Strengthening Partners

The Ministry of Defense Advisors (MoDA) Program selects, trains, and partners detailed senior Department of Defense (DoD) civilian experts with foreign counterparts to build institutional capacity in key areas, such as cyber, maritime domain awareness, acquisition and logistics, personnel and readiness, strategy and policy, human resource and financial management. The MoDA program was originally developed in response to defense advising requirements in Afghanistan and expanded globally to meet increased US Government emphasis on civilian-led Institutional Capacity Building (ICB) globally. MoDA was designed to leverage the specialized capabilities of DoD civilians and provide the reach back support and cultural, operational, and advisor training that ensures the in-country advising is appropriate, effective, and sustainable. Since July 2010, MoDA has trained and deployed over 700 resident advisors to over 30 countries.

The MoDA Program provides trained Department of Defense advisors in support of global United States Security Cooperation and Institutional Capacity Building efforts in partner nations.

AUTHORIZATION

The MoDA Program is nested within DSCA's Institutional Capacity Building Directorate (ICBD) at the Defense Security Cooperation University (DSCU). The program provides institutional advisory support through the traditional MoDA authority – 10 USC Section 332a – and through DSCA security cooperation Foreign Military Sales and Finance cases. MoDAs are DoD civilians who are deployed globally for up to 30-months to support foreign counterparts in enabling critical ministerial and institutional security initiatives.

GLOBAL ADVISING

A trained MoD Advisor is a subject matter expert who enables enduring, local solutions that build partner institutional capacity. Finding tailored solutions to local problems is the primary objective of any MoD Advisor serving in a partner nation. As Security Cooperation ICB professionals, MoDAs are trained to support U.S. partners as they work to improve institutional capabilities. MoDAs perform a unique role in the Security Cooperation enterprise through their daily proximity to the partner and with their expertise to advise the partner towards shaping outcomes supporting partner and U.S. national security goals.

MoDA OPPORTUNITIES

The MoDA program implements efforts that support, and are driven by, the National Defense Strategy, National Security interests, and our Security Cooperation priorities and mission, in confluence with those of our global partners.
